

14/14

Molding Made From Polyurethane and Process for its ProductionAbstract of the Disclosure:

A polyurethane molding is composed of at least two different polyurethane 5 materials, namely of a polyurethane gel and a polyurethane foam. The foam and the gel are arranged in layers one above another so that both materials act together as spring or damping element with respect to a load in the transverse direction.
These moldings may preferably be used as seat cushions.